Jamboree Media Communications

The Jamboree group tasked with providing newspaper, radio and television facilities for the event is called Media Communications.

In 1997 this unit will provide:

- > Several radio stations (AM and FM) to inform and entertain those on-site
- > A daily, morning newspaper to inform and provide a historical record.
- > A daily newsletter for leaders and staff
- > Photographs and photography services for newspapers and magazines
- > A souvenir video
- > Hometown News - a service that enables jamboree Scouts to act as reporters for their home newspapers.
- > Act as an interface to newspaper, radio and television media
- > Provide an Internet presence.

In the near future more details about these services will become available. These details will include who to contact to work in any of these areas.
